Re: Drinking water sampling and water treatment system

Dear Mr. Edmunds:

I made telephone contact with you recently regarding the drinking water sampling requirements that were on your property. These requirements were placed as a form of protection when it was thought that you would be using a drinking water treatment system to filter out the contaminants in the water.

After speaking with you regarding your current drinking water source there at your property, we have determined that the drinking water monitoring requirement is not necessary at this time since you are currently using an offsite drinking water source and have a water tank inside your house which you consider a permanent fixture.

As noted on the DEC Contaminated Sites Database, available at http://www.dec.state.ak.us/spar/csp/db\_search.htm, the following institutional controls are still part of the record:

- No off-site transport of soil or groundwater from this site without prior authorization of DEC.
- Periodic review – DEC will contact you every three years to verify that you continue to use an off-site drinking water source.
- DEC must be notified in advance if the on-site drinking water well is to be used once again as a home water source.

If you decide to remove the groundwater well from your property, it should be properly decommissioned. Information about this process can be found on our website in the Monitoring Well Guidance document at http://www.dec.state.ak.us/spar/csp/guidance/mw\_guidance.pdf
