

Cheryl Lovegreen

I am speaking against making any substantial changes to the current oil discharge prevention and contingency plans. As to whether "if any portions may be outdated or duplicative," they are not; the need for these provisions is still as vital as the day they were written.